Abstract: In 1830 the Hunterdon County Collector, or Controller, gave each record of outgoing funds a number and filed them in order on a string. These records of payment provide a picture of what happened in Hunterdon that year. Among other things, the County repaired or built 33 bridges; paid county residents to serve as constables at court; held elections throughout the County, including in Trenton, Pennington and Lawrenceville, which at that time were part of Hunterdon County.

HISTORICAL NOTES: In 1830 Hunterdon County included the area that comprises the county today, as well as portions of Mercer County, including Trenton, Pennington and Lawrenceville. The Board of Chosen Freeholders during that year were under the direction of David Stout. The Collector for the year was Asher Atkinson. According to law he was required to post a bond with two sureties. Other significant personages included Isaac Farlee, the County Clerk, and Thomas Capner, County Attorney.

SCOPE AND CONTENT The Hunterdon Country Collector Records for 1830 consist of 164 individual receipts numbered 1, 3-12, 14-104, 106-123, 125-143, 145-160, 163-164, 166-169, 171-173 . It consists of 33 bridge repair/construct orders; 39 election related receipts; 27 constable certificates; 10 school fund receipts, 14 other court related receipts; and 41 miscellaneous receipts. The collection is significant to (i) those interested in the workings of county government, (ii) those conducting genealogical research; and (iii) those researching County townships and villages.
